The Changing Legislative Landscape: Implications for Regulators & Internationally Educated Professionals

Joan Atlin, Director, Strategy, Policy and Research, World Education Services

Karl Flecker, Associate Director of Policy and Advocacy, World Education Services

This session will outline some recent changes in the federal and Ontario legislative landscape that have the potential to impact a large community of international educated professionals and regulatory bodies. Growing labour and skill shortages, an alarming exodus of workers from some sectors, and the persistent underutilization of newcomers has piqued the public and media interest. An interactive discussion format will allow participants to explore what these developments signal for their community.

Trauma Informed Investigation - It's Time!

Dean Benard, President + CEO, Benard + Associates

Trauma informed investigations is a critical step to managing investigation processes and direct contact in a manner that creates a psychologically safe place for all those involved in an investigation. There are misconceptions, biases, and even poor practices that can create the scenario of a person being twice victimized. This session is a foundational overview of trauma informed investigations, designed as a starting point in one's journey to inclusive, fair, safe, and accessible investigations. The program will cover such topics as:

- What is trauma and who experiences it?
- Concepts of intersectionality
- Understanding and avoid bias in our work
- Interviewing in a trauma informed manner
- Vicarious trauma and how to protect ourselves and maintain our own mental health

Online Communication and the Regulatory Context - Supporting Ethical and Professional Practice in the Age of Social Media

Lise Betteridge, MSW, RSW, Registrar and CEO, Ontario College of Social Workers and Social Service Workers

Do your members reach out regularly with questions about communicating with clients online? Are professional boundaries any different now? Have you had concerns about Council or Board members' use of social media? When and how should regulators step in when social media use brings the profession into disrepute or creates risk? This session will explore:

- Pressure points – how members and Council members can get into trouble using social media and communicating online
- Protecting privacy – how regulators can respond to members breaching clients' privacy and confidentiality online
- Practice Resources and Policies – how practice resources and governance policies can support the maintenance of clear and appropriate professional boundaries

What Risk-Based Regulation Looks Like at the Human Resources Professionals Association (HRPA)

Mara Berger, Associate Registrar, Human Resources Professional Association

Emily Sully, Policy Analyst, Human Resources Professional Association

HRPA is the regulatory body for Human Resources (HR) professionals in Ontario. Recently, HRPA has undergone a shift towards risk-based regulation. From this session, attendees will learn:

- What risk-based regulation entails,
- How HRPA identifies risks that the practice of HR poses and determines the severity of each risk,
- Ways that HRPA responds to high-risk areas of practice, and
- How success in implementing risk-based regulation is monitored through a practice-based assessment tool.

Attendees will be provided with practical resources they can use in their own organizations, including a risk roster, risk-based regulation practice-based assessment tool, and a FAQ about risk-based regulation

Conducting Remote Investigations - Keeping it Real

Dean Benard, President + CEO, Benard + Associates

The pandemic of 2020 and 2021 changed the way investigations were managed for many regulators and those they serve. This session covers the highlights of what is different in a remote investigation and addresses a number of questions and important points about the way we investigate, now and in the future:

- Does the investigation approach need to change?
- Gathering and managing evidence
- Interviewing considerations - can we still get what we need?
- Managing the technology challenges
- Privacy issues
- Advantages of remote investigations
